FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NEW COMPANY INTRODUCES GREEN, MODERN TREE HOUSES

Elevated Living Builds Eco-Conscious, Customizable Tree Houses

Portland, OR (April 12, 2010) - Elevated Living is a new company based in Portland, OR that specializes in green, customizable tree houses. Founded by Schuyler Silva in 2009, Elevated Living is now accepting new customers who are looking for a modern recreational structure in the canopy of a tree. These tree houses have multiple uses including, but not limited to, play structures, decks, viewpoints, and outdoor living spaces. Designed with the environment in mind, these tree houses minimize waste of eco-conscious materials, do not damage the tree, and are fully supported by the trunk.

Each tree house is customized for the owner and for its location. Size, materials, and access options are up to the owner. The structures are pre-manufactured off-site and installation takes only 3 days. This minimizes the impact to the owner and the environment of the surrounding ecosystem. Price varies on options.

Schuyler Silva has a background in technical theatre receiving his Master's degree in Scenic Technology at the University of Illinois. Schuyler is a Portland native and attended Grant High School. He has returned after college because of his love for the Pacific Northwest. The idea for Elevated Living was conceived in 2006 and his first installation was completed in September 2009 in Southwest Portland. With this first installation acting as a proof of concept, Elevated Living is hoping to produce 10 tree houses in 2010.
